Paradise for Killing

This date is November 19, and it is an anniversary important to every American.

On this day, seventy-one years ago, Abraham Lincoln stood on the Gettysburg battlefield, and looking over the field where so many had died in honor on both sides expressed for the whole country its determination that government of the people, for the people and by the people should not perish from the earth. School children are always made to read that Gettysburg address; grown men and women should also themselves to what extent that government, of, for and by the people has succeeded, and its equality.

How firmly have we established the government of which Lincoln dreamed? Do the people really manage their government for themselves, or do they only criticize and applaud, according to their whim, while others govern them? Has Lincoln's dream of government not "perished from the earth," because it never really started? Has there ever been a time when men governed themselves? Do they govern themselves now? How much power and influence have 121,500,000 of the country's 125,000,000 people in their government, and in deciding what is done with them and their money? Do you feel that you have much to say about it?

It is said that Seward, Lincoln's brilliant secretary of state, felt that he, Seward, should write the Gettysburg speech for the President, and give Mr. Lincoln the benefit of his superior ability. Seward possessed deepest sincerity, combined with complete humility and devotion, and it is fortunate for the world that he refused to say what he had to say on the Gettysburg battlefield in his own way, unaided.

It is planned, Washington says, to convert millions of acres of unproductive land, worthless for farming, into a "hunter's paradise." On the millions of acres wild animals will be encouraged to raise their families, that noble white man may have the pleasure of shooting them. Civilization does progress, but slowly, when the richest, and an allegedly highly intellectual race, place an earthly paradise for killing, indulging the red Indians' heavily hunting ground. That should we think of our alleged cousins, the gorillas, if they set aside a million acres in Africa for the purpose of breeding and killing human Af Jans?

We are living under a government of "initials" innumerable commissions indicated by first letters of words that describe them, called by the irreverent the administration's "alphabet soup."

A list of these initials, lately revised, runs from AAA to ZISSE. AAA means Agricultural Adjustment Administration. ZISSE means United States Information Service. Between AAA and ZISSE are thirty-one others, the most interesting, perhaps, SAPP. Some will wonder what the "P" stands for. The total stands for special advisor to the President on foreign trade. Most important are AAA, which deals with farmers, CCC, Commodity Credit Corporation, which handles out money, and NRA, or National Recovery Administration, which tells big and little business what to do, and how to do it. Thirty-three different sets of initials, all with employee drawing good salaries, and all industriously spending the public money you cannot doubt that results will come.

GURLEY JOBS PROJECT UP TO TONES

By Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 19.—Governor-elect James M. Curley of Massachusetts today urged Public Works Administration leaders to approve a tentative public works program for the Bay State designed to afford employment to thousands of idle workers.

Curley told Tones Massachusetts could not put public works money to immediate use in the city of Boston, and added he was calling a meeting of mayors and selectmen of the state within a week to prepare a coordinated program to ease unemployment this winter.

The governor-elect leaves for home tonight. He said he intended to ask an allotment of $20,000,000 for Boston and about $100,000,000 for the state, and added that the Boston program, which includes housing construction and extension of the Huntington Avenue subway, could be started at once.

Curley was anxious to obtain federal approval of his plan for a statewide housing program, under which the state and municipalities would provide, without charge, public housing for the homeless, while the federal government would supply the funds for material and labor charges.

"Such a program," Curley said, "would provide employment for thousands of building trades workers who are now unemployed." Curley said the houses would cost on an average $2500 and under his plan the tenant would be permitted to purchase them for mere rental cost by taking out deeds payable in 20 years.

While in Washington, the governor-elect has pressed for approval by the War Department and the Public Works Administration his $20,000,000 Governors Island development project, which he would have converted into an Army air base and moving houses for government employees.

FIND BODIES OF 2 BEATEN NEGROES IN WOODS

Clifton Forge, Va., Nov. 19.—The bodies of two white girls, their skulls crushed by heavy blows, were found in woods near here early today by a searching party, and shortly afterwards authorities arrested three Negroes and rushed them to Roanoke for safekeeping.

The children, Alice R. Hill, 13, and Ellen Hill, nine, had been missing since Sunday night. The Negroes are Phillip Jones, 25; Chester Smith, Jr., 23, and James M. Putnam, said to be a confession from Jones that he killed the children and he sought to implicate Smith.

A fourth negro who gave his name as John Pryor was taken by authorities to Roanoke for questioning. A Connor Houff said the girls' children of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hill, died of fracture of skulls and the older girl had been criminally attacked.

Authorities said the children left home after their parents had received a telephone call from Jones asking the girls be sent to notify his wife he would not be home until late and that soon after this call, Jones went home.

BAER SUFFERS BAD INFECTION

By International News Service
Mexico City, Nov. 19.—Max Baer, world's heavyweight boxing champion, developed a bad infection in each of his arms today, and was ordered to bed under the care of a nurse. Baer's condition caused considerable concern. Dr. Walter L. Garrett said that if the infection failed to respond to treatment, Baer would be rushed to a hospital. The infection in Baer's right arm was caused by a mosquito bite, while the infection in his left arm resulted from the scratching of a simple. Dr. Garrett said, in addition, the boxer was suffering from nausea which developed during an airplane flight to Cuernavaca.

American Ambassador Joseph Duggan sent the third secretary of the Embassy to Baer's hotel to inquire about his condition.

RACE BOARD FACES DELAY

Massachusetts' fundraising war over makeup of the horse and dog racing commission slowed down to almost today when Governor Ely's three appointments probably will not come this week.

Absence of Governor Ely from the state will defer consideration by the governor's council for at least a week following Wednesday, but whether the drive against the Ely nominees will have let up by then was only problematical.

It has been the courtesy custom for years with the governor's council to inform the governor himself as to the council action in confirming or rejecting appointees before making the confirmations or rejection public.

Governor Ely, however, will not be back at the State House until Thursday, according to his present schedule, while the weekly continued on Page 4, Column 4.

CALL MILLIONAIRE IN WALKER QUIZ

Daniel C. Muloney, former president of the closed Federal National Bank, who was convicted and sentenced for misappropriation of bank funds, was taken to New York tomorrow to testify at the Federal grand jury inquiry into the financial affairs of former Mayor James J. Walker.

Muloney, for many years a financial success, was a heavy stock operator, making sales and investments amounting to millions of dollars. It is understood he will be asked to explain what, if any, financial arrangement existed between him and Walker in respect to his securities operations.

Muloney first testified in the long Walker inquiry in August, 1933.

Sen. Wragg Beaten; Jail Escape Foiled

In a furious fight and chase outside Dedham jail, Harold J. Maxwell of Schiller road, Dedham, made a desperate but vain effort to escape today after conviction as a petty party hand.

His guard was State Senator Samuel H. Wragg, who acts also as court clerk in Dedham district court.

Wragg had reached a point near the jail entrance with Maxwell when he suddenly felt a hard object against his side. Realizing that Maxwell could not have a revolver just after leaving court, Wragg refused to stop and "stick him up."

At this point, he later related, Maxwell punched him, splitting his upper lip. The two grappled, and Wragg went out of control and both were thrown out when it hit a tree. Maxwell dashed across the street, and broke and later was made his way among the tombstones.

Dead Man Holds Key to LINDBERGH Mystery -- Story on Page 2

'DEAD MAN' HOLDS KEY TO LINDBERGH-KIDNAP MYSTERY

SECRET BRIEF BY FISCH IN GERMANY, IS BELIEVED

Renewed investigation of the Lindbergh kidnaping has developed a "mystery man."

Authorities believe they have discovered a "dual personality" that may overshadow all others in this baffling case. He is, or was, Louis Fisch, now dead. He is the man from whom Bruno Richard Hauptmann says he received the ransom money found in his possession.

The life and activities of Fisch, it is believed, may hold the key to the entire complicated problem.

Herewith is the first of a series of articles by Lou Wedemar, who has scored several important "exclusives" in the Lindbergh case, and who will present this new "mystery" character as investigation on two continents is depicting him.

By LOU WEDEMAR

Copyright, 1934, by Lou Wedemar
New York, Nov. 19.—Lindbergh, a man with two personalities, loomed today as possibly the most important figure in the Lindbergh case.

There are other "mystery men," notably Dr. John F. "Jafie" Condon, elderly ransom intermediary, and Harry Whitely, associate of Mrs. Hauptmann, wife of Bruno Richard Hauptmann; but the strange little German furrier, who Hauptmann says left the $10,000 ransom money with him, outranks all the rest.

To one set of friends Fisch was a penniless fur worker, too poor to buy an overcoat. To another group he was a wealthy business man, able to buy a new suit and a house and to boast of his hidden fortune. Hauptmann's friends say Fisch should be investigated instead of Hauptmann—both the police pay no attention to them, but a very good reason.

Fisch, apparently, is dead. Fisch gave a box full of money to Hauptmann last winter, if Hauptmann's story is true, and sailed home to Germany to be treated for pulmonary tuberculosis in the mountains of the Junges.

With him sailed Henry Uhlig, like Fisch a furrier. On March 29 of this year, according to cables, Fisch died in a hospital in his home town, Leipzig.

DEATH A MYSTERY
Even his death was mysterious. Uhlig complained that he was not allowed near the sick bed. Dr. Condon, without charges, may have been poisoned. And Fisch's passport was voided mysteriously.

But Leipzig police records show that Louis Fisch did die, and his brother, Pinus, verifies the report. So, unless one considers the improbability that someone else was buried in his name—this must be accepted.

But lines of investigation, relating to friends and activities of Fisch, throw new light on the great Lindbergh problem.

Was the 31-month-old son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was kidnapped by the man who was called Fisch?

British Liner Brings Passenger List of Notables

SIR THOMAS ESMOND

LADY FRANCES ESMOND

Here aboard the S. S. Lacania, which stopped at Boston on route from the British Isles to New York, are Sir Thomas Henry Gratton Esmond, Irish statesman and author, and Lady Anna Frances Lewis Esmond. Sir Thomas, dean of the paper chamber, is an old and warm friend of Governor-elect Curley, to whom he paid a personal tribute.

Very graciously, however, a close neighbor of Fisch became associated almost immediately with the case.

Fisch lived in a rooming house operated by a Mrs. Kohl at 149 E. 17th st., a shabby Harlem address, between Lexington and Third avenues. Several German-born men and women also lived with Mrs. Kohl, among them Mr. and Mrs. Karl Henkel, who were above Mrs. Kohl.

The rooming house is at the Lexington avenue station, diagonally across the street, at No. 164 East 17th street. The man who lived at Chapel, a small hall in which he was contained in the morning, was in the rooming house.

WIRE SENT LINDBERGH
Two days after the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped, Colonel Lindbergh received a telegram: "Have important information about the case." A telephone number was contained in the message. The sender was notified to come to Princeton Junction, near Hopewell, at once.

At the Princeton Junction Hotel, Col. Henry Breckenridge, Col. Lindbergh's attorney, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the Jersey state police, were met by a small, dark Italian and an attractive young girl.

"This girl is a trance medium. She has been told by the spirits in a trance and she will tell you what she has told me."

The baby is on the heights above Hopewell. I see letters from the kidnappers. I see the initials J. F. C. I see eyes—that make me afraid. I have the message from the kidnappers.

Colonel Schwarzkopf replied: "No. This was a pause. The girl turned sharply to Colonel Breckenridge.

"Colonel 'Breckenridge,' what are you doing here? No more genuine letters will come to Hopewell. There will be a letter for Colonel Lindbergh addressed to you at your office in New York. Go there and wait for it."

LETTER FOLLOWS
The medium and her companion were shown away. Col. Schwarzkopf decided they were just "two more cranks." They thought nothing at the time of the fact that the girl had pronounced the name "Breckenridge."

But the following morning a letter, bearing the symbolical signature that marked it as genuine, arrived at Colonel Breckenridge's office, at the medium had forecast.

Not only that, but the letter stated that the kidnappers had received information that Colonel Schwarzkopf was in the city—very important at the time—every one was too happy that communications had been resumed.

Three sensational developments in the Lindbergh case, which seemed almost dead, were revived by the gold seizure net and the law abrogating the gold clause in contracts.

AUSTRIAN ASKS GLORIA'S FATE TO BE SIGNED BY COURT

By International News Service
Rome, Nov. 19.—The future of Gloria Vanderbilt, 10-year-old heiress, was to be settled today by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew, who was expected to sign by tomorrow one of two orders submitted by opposing counsel.

The order was presented to him today and will be considered after the justice has cleared up other court matters.

The order of counsel for the Whitney interests, signed by the court, will make Mrs. Vanderbilt a Saturday-to-Sunday mother in that Mrs. Whitney will have custody of her niece five days a week while Mrs. Vanderbilt will have to be satisfied with only two days' possession.

The order for the Vanderbilt interests calls for a writ of habeas corpus in favor of the child's mother.

Counsel for both sides said the orders they had prepared were "similar in the main" and varied only in details.

There was no reference by either side to training of the child.

It was said each order bedeviled Gloria for an indefinite time because Mrs. Vanderbilt will have to be satisfied with only two days' possession.

Irish Statesman Lauds Curley on Arrival Here

Delayed 20 hours by fog, the Irish Lacania arrived today with a notable list of passengers from Liverpool, England and Cork, Ireland, and docked at Pier 3, East Boston.

Included among the passengers was Sir Thomas Henry Gratton Esmond, Bart., of Dublin, prominent Irish statesman, author, dean of the paper chamber and personal friend of Governor-elect Charles F. Curley. He was accompanied by Lady Anna Frances Lewis Esmond, Sir Thomas, dean of the paper chamber, is an old and warm friend of Governor-elect Curley, to whom he paid a personal tribute.

Speaking on the economic condition of Ireland, he said: "At no time since its inception has my country been so peaceful. I look forward to complete peace in Ireland within a year. Where the Irish people in the past have been forced to use merchandise and clothing of foreign workmanship and manufacture, today are now wearing goods of Irish manufacture, especially in the line of underwear, stockings and shoes, and are even manufacturing their own tobacco."

Another passenger, although not so distinguished, but he may be in May—was 21-year-old Charles V. L. Foley of Sligo, Ireland, who revealed that he is here to pursue a plane with which to fly back to Dublin in an attempt to set a record of 20 hours for the crossing. He said he is going to buy the engine of a plane from the estate of a man named by the name of the late Lord of the Manor of the County of Sligo.

George Feared Being 'Cut Out' by Wales

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Nov. 19 (AP)—It was stated upon high authority here today that the Duke of Kent hastened his engagement to Princess Marina because he had a notion that if he delayed proposing to the beautiful Greek princess the Prince of Wales might offer his hand and the throne of England.

The Prince of Wales, according to an informant, realizing that there were few eligible royal princesses left in Europe, had begun to manifest interest in favor of Marina, whom he had known since early childhood.

Prince George, it was said, got wind of his brother's growing tenderness for Marina and decided that if he himself were going to win the prize he must come without loss of time.

It was said that why George was in Yugoslavia instead of going by train.

Marina was said to have laughed heartily when she heard of the battle for her hand between two royal princes, but smilingly refused to admit the Prince of Wales was in love with her.

It is in the family, anyway, isn't it? she was said to have pointed to one of her girl confidantes.

New Drive Faces "Bucket Shops"

With the establishment of an office for the Securities Exchange Commission for the benefit of Judge John Burns, counsel for that body, in the Federal building shortly, it is expected a further drive will be made on speculative brokerage houses in Greater Boston. It was learned today that the Securities Exchange Commission will come to Boston and co-operate with Judge Burns in the Federal building.

30 TRAPPED IN FLAMING CAR

Thirty passengers milled inside a burning street car at L street and East Broadway, South Boston, today, until motorists and the operating company succeeded in getting them out of the car.

The blaze, in greasy parking lot, started in the rear of a black smoke into the interior of the car, east of the Fifth street, South Boston, operator of the one-man car, opened all doors and emergency exits, but passengers were trapped in the frightened confusion.

Traffic at the busy intersection was blocked because motorists held their cars in the middle of the street while they assisted in rescue work. Injuries were reported. Damage to the car was estimated at $25.

Quick action by a Dorchester fireman saved the life of Mrs. Anthony Papazian, 35, today after she tried to extinguish a blaze that broke out in a closet of her home in Aspinwall road, Dorchester.

Mrs. Papazian was screaming with pain and fright when Ladderman Albert Potter of the Callender street fire station, reached the burning flat. Her clothing was in flames.

She beat the flames and carried her to the automobile of her son, Leon, 18, for the trip to City Hospital. Doctors found that she suffered first and second degree burns.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, but firemen said young Papazian told his mother he had been searching for a light bulb in a closet and had suffered first and second degree burns before the fire was discovered.

Death Driver Dies of Crash Injuries

Norco, La., Nov. 19 (AP)—Warren E. Massey, Jr., 29-year-old Tulane university student, who wrecked his grandmother's limousine as he then, officers said, stole a second automobile in which he crashed, died of injuries suffered in the accident last night.

Massey was being chased by a state highway policeman when he crashed into a machine which was being driven by the couple burst into flames when struck. Two young women were trapped inside.

TROUBLE, TROUBLE FLICKERS IN HOLLYWOOD

Court troubles never cease in Hollywood. Just as it is announced that Claire Windsor has settled a $250,000 alimony suit for an estimated $250,000, other film folk by the score become entangled in court actions. Both Claire and Mrs. Marion Read, who brought the suit, claim victory.

Claire Windsor, The United States Bureau of Internal Revenue has filed action against Carmel Myers, among several, for further payment of income taxes. The government asserts that Miss Myers is short a little more than $100,000. The actress has not revealed her plans regarding the action.

The film colony expected that Mary McCormic, opera star, would lose her life of privilege today. Final papers in her action against Prince Serge Nizovod, of the marrying, Midwestern from Asia, were to be awarded. Nizovod is a brother of five-and-ten-cent store heiress Barbara Huttenlocher's husband.

A suit for $1000 against Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot was ordered "off calendar" because they were reported out of the country. Norton E. McIntire is asking that suit, claiming he was bitten by their dog. Attorney says their absence has nothing to do with the damage suit.

A suit for $725 brought against comedienne Zasu Pitts was won by the actress. A woman charged that the actress had hired her as a nursemaid, then failed to give her the job. The court decided there had been no hiring. There was nothing funny about the action, Zasu declared.

About the largest sum set in a damage suit against a film figure was $64,975 asked in a suit against Wesley Ruggles, screen director. The damage suit was the result of an auto accident. Ruggles denies blame. The director believes he will have a little difficulty winning the case.

Another victim of the government's campaign of income tax liens was Lillian Brand. She is somewhat tickling in Carmel Myers. In the Bond action, the Internal Revenue Bureau seeks only $50. Miss Bond is fighting. Nina Wilcox Putnam and Sidney Fox also were on the tax lien list.

The largest amount asked by a film personage is $300,000. This figure is named in a breach of promise action filed by Nina Cavalier against George Benton Wilson, wealthy yachtman. A stip by Mrs. Wilson recently won Nina $100,000. Nina then told the court she had received a black eye.

FEUD Slayer on TRIAL

STRANGE CASE IN SEATTLE KILLED DOCTOR WHO TEASED HIM AS 'DUKE'

Seattle, Nov. 19 (AP)—A bizarre "teas" slaying, the killing of a man by a woman who had teased and pestered him for months, brought Charles Garfield Duke, wealthy property owner, to court today on a first degree murder charge.

The 45-year-old retired business man went on trial for his life for the shooting of Dr. Leon Walter Squier, an osteopath, last October 5.

In the background, as the trial got under way, lay a strange feud between the two men, which began more than a year ago over the property owner's attempt to collect rent money from Dr. Squier and his associate, Dr. H. E. Nelson, a dentist.

The shooting occurred when Dr. Squier, wearing a top hat and using a broomstick as a cane to mimic the older man, and Dr. Nelson approached Duke. At work in the Duke, Duke stood the "taunting" for several minutes, he asserted.

"Squier would march up and down and say: 'Well, there's the Duke, how about it, Duke?'" Then he would hold his hat and raise his head and parade about some more," he stated.

"Finally, I could stand it no longer," he said.

Heavy B.U. Drinkers! Of Coffee

MILK NEXT AND PLENTY OF DOUGHNUTS

Just a few food stations at the Boston University College Business Administration cafeteria: Sixty cents for 10,000 cups of coffee per year.

And consume 40,176 doughnuts, sugar and plain. The milk demand reaches 22,500 gallons.

Crullers, coffee rolls and biscuits together total yearly 15,120.

So that if all the crullers and biscuits and coffee rolls and doughnuts were laid out to end, the world would be a different place.

On another way: Milk, 3200 gallons; cream, 676 gallons. Pie is still in good standing, with 10,000 pieces going the way of the wind.

And—Oh! Mr. J. Wellington Wells—the hamburgers amount to 7720.

TEST ON NEW RUBBER COSTS HIS LIFE

Chicago, Nov. 19 (AP)—A scientist's experiment to test his permanent with transparent rubber has caused his death.

Dr. Eric von Gebauer, 32, died yesterday from the effects of hydrochloric acid in his lungs. He died without learning whether his rubber compound, as transparent as glass, will be successful.

His associates believe it will. The scientist, habited hydrochloric acid Thursday in a Gary, Ind., laboratory, where he worked in addition to his duties at Northwestern University.

GINGER'LL "DIVVY" HER GOWN WITH FANS

She Destroyed the Love Letters

Regrets It

BUT GIRL PRESSES SUIT AGAINST BROOKLINE MAN

If only Mary hadn't destroyed the love letters she says were written to her by George Hatch, young Brookline textile magnate—

But Mary Schrip, slim New York brunette who has filed a $500,000 breach of promise suit against Hatch, did destroy the alleged letters, she admitted today, and she regretted it exceedingly.

"You see I never expected anything to come between us," she declared in explaining why she had not saved the letters.

Miss Schrip, daughter of Dr. Frank M. Schrip of New York, charges in her suit that Hatch is the father of her three-year-old son, Frederick Louis, and she asserts Hatch should have married her instead of eloping with Dorothy Angela Ruddy, Boston and New York social favorite.

It was a boy and girl romance, she charged today—a romance which started in an upper New York State camp where her father was director, and which ended when he eloped and their Park Avenue residence in New York was closed.

"I've known him since he was a boy," said Mary today in New York. "I met him when he was about 15 and went to Camp Vassar, Schaghticoke, up State, where my father was director."

"That was about 1920 or 1921. At the camp were a number of the sons of prominent New Yorkers. I became acquainted with many of George's friends, and I am subconsciously a number of them to testify for me."

Ginger Rogers Plans 'Wedding Gown Split'

BITS OF LACE USED FOR DRESS GOING TO HER MOVIE FANS

Hollywood, Nov. 19—Motion picture fans have torn time, acids and even coats from their film idols, but Ginger Rogers will give them the biggest thrill of all.

When the red-headed star returns from her honeymoon with Lew Ayres she has decided to give her admirers actual sample of the green Chantilly lace from which her wedding gown was cut.

Ginger brought the entire bolt of lace from a New York importer. At the time she thought only of protecting her wedding gown from imitation.

But now she has 23 yards left over and she has decided to distribute them among her followers. The lace will be cut into small squares to form as many souvenirs as possible.

Members of Ginger's fan clubs will get first choice, but all requests will receive consideration. The lace will be given to the R-K-O studio in Hollywood.

GOLF? WELL IT JUST DEPENDS, SAY STARS

THESE FIVE WILL GO ALONG WITHOUT GOLF TANS, THEY SAY

Hollywood, Nov. 19—Golf and a career in the films just don't mix.

Hollywood's greatest stars of the silver screen for various reasons, all of which may go back to the fact "their faces are their fortunes," turn thumbs down on the ancient Scotch sport.

The sun blazing on a fairway has been known to darken a Hollywood complexion and some people even say the walking has been known to cause lumpy leg muscles.

Greta Garbo, Mae West, Marlene Dietrich, Loretta Young, Carole Lombard, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Jeanette MacDonald, Jean Parker and a host of other luminaries of the land of make-believe, who are Hollywood, just can't see any sport in "trying to hit a ball a long way when you have to chase it," to quote Una Merkel.

Of course, golf has its supporters but they represent less than one-fourth of the screen colony's female population.

Jean Harlow, Virginia Bruce, Helen Hayes, Ruth Elder and Helen Twelvetrees are the leading exponents of the game.

Garbo, who of course couldn't be reached directly for a statement, was quoted by friends as being opposed to golf because it requires statements in public—one has to yell "Fore" on the fairways.

Astoria Allen, Claire Trevor and Rochelle Hudson all have tried golf, but think "it's too dull to be called a sport," and takes too much time.

bear in mind that the administration has still a right to be amazed at its own moderation. On January 5, last, President Roosevelt planned spending sixteen thousand five hundred million dollars in two years, to end June 30, 1935. Spending has fallen below this estimate by hundreds of millions and during the remainder of the fiscal year, he will keep up with the estimate. The President must spend on depression and reconstruction SIX THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS.

That two-year limit of sixteen and a half billion seems considerable when you remember that it is not as much as the total debt of the United States when the war began.

Imagine how foreign countries feel when they learn that we can still spend sixteen thousand million in two years after the war.

They must say to themselves: "We were too moderate."

The way to solve railroad problems, serious in the United States, with railroad trains empty, automobile motor trucks taking their business, is TO DO SOMETHING.

Seek "Empress" in Deaths

Investigating the mysterious deaths of at least two persons on lonely Marchena Island, far off the coast of South America, Ecuadorian authorities are anxious to interview Baroness Elise Bosquet de Wagner, self-styled empress of Floreana Island, which is near Marchena Island, has been accused of carelessness with other people's lives. She's missing now.

The mysterious activities of Baroness Elise Bosquet de Wagner, self-styled "Empress" of the Island of Floreana, in the Galapagos, were the subject of lively comment today at the office of retainers on the island.

Although the island group is owned by Ecuador, government of the islands was without an official report of the gruesome discovery up to a late hour today, but reports were begun and a launch is expected to be sent to the island shortly.

The Baroness, who ruled with an iron hand, was reported to have left her island recently.

While no official announcement was made, it was generally understood that she had been "invited" to leave. This was after widespread publicity of a story to the effect she had been self-styled empress of the island.

The captain of the fishing boat on which she was reported to have been shot to death in a mysterious manner.

Whether there was any connection between the "Empress" of Floreana and the couple found on the island today, is still a matter of speculation.

South Sea Empress' Cruel Deeds Bared by Tragedy

By International News Service

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Nov. 18.—The story of the adventure after his return to Ecuador.

He said several of his crew had been lost but that he, a number of sailors and the newlyweds had reached Floreana Island safely.

Several men belonging to the Baroness couple greeted them at the shore and conducted them to the self-styled "Empress." All of her men were heavily armed and the Baroness herself, attired in her traditional costume of silk shorts and a filmy blouse, sported a revolver held about her waist by a sash.

After hearing their story, the Baroness immediately ordered the couple to leave. She had the newlyweds placed in an open boat without food or oars, the captain said, and set them adrift, remarking they would have more time for love-making if unburdened by the necessity of rowing or eating or talking to unsympathetic companions.

Numerous other stories of the Baroness' fierce temper were related here. A Norwegian sailor told of being kidnapped and held prisoner, while another story said one of her male companions had been shot to death in a mysterious manner.

Whether there was any connection between the "Empress" of Floreana and the couple found on the island today, is still a matter of speculation.

4 Families Flee West End Fire

Four families, including a number of children, were driven to the street early today during a fire on the first floor of a five-story brick building at 56 Green Street, West End.

Fire officials called in inspectors of the Arson squad to investigate after they found a fire starting in the hallway of the building and also on the roof.

The fire worked its way up the stairs and out through the roof. The occupants of the four families fled to the street. Fire officers from the North street police division, those who were driven out were cared for by neighbors.

Another whose voice was raised against the commission makeup—William H. Gardner was one of those who moved for the public hearing on Governor Ely's nomination, and it was at that time that he raised the matter of the Commonwealth's right of racing will be presented.

A new idea in the racing controversy was proposed today by Representative L. Sullivan of Dorchester, who said he will ask Mayor Mansfield to move for legislation setting up a Boston corporation to handle racing in the city.

WOULD AID RELIEF

Representative Sullivan plan, he said, would go into the city of Boston territory, to be paid in office and aid to relieve the tax burden on real estate.

Macomber, president of Massachusetts sportsman and owner of "Raceland" in Framingham, whose name has been listed with the Tuckerman group, returned to Boston today and refused comment on Governor Ely's commission nomination.

"I was very much surprised to find this mess," said Macomber. "I am not going to be involved in this. I am not going to be involved in this. I am not going to be involved in this."

Greenwood plan for the control of racing now in the hands of the state would give an exclusive franchise for horse and dog contests to a private corporation, with all profits above six percent being turned over to charitable institutions.

Trustees, serving without pay, would govern the tracks under the plan, but the trustees would not be allowed to hold stock in the outfit. To finance the franchise, State-authorized non-voting stock would be sold to the public with the number of shares per person limited.

CROCKER HITS BACK

In denying that he is counsel for the official positioners for a permanent referendum in Massachusetts, and styled himself as O'Hara as "a defender of all public interests" denied today that he is a representative of Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., society horseman, in the racing triangle.

Another whose voice was raised against the commission makeup—William H. Gardner of Boston—was instrumental in securing the 8000 racing referendum vote today that he is in favor of the state receiving more than the proposed $100,000 from horse racing and dog racing rather than any voluntary contribution to the racing, money might make.

Gardner was one of those who moved for the public hearing on Governor Ely's nomination, and it was at that time that he raised the matter of the Commonwealth's right of racing will be presented.

A new idea in the racing controversy was proposed today by Representative L. Sullivan of Dorchester, who said he will ask Mayor Mansfield to move for legislation setting up a Boston corporation to handle racing in the city.

WOULD AID RELIEF

Representative Sullivan plan, he said, would go into the city of Boston territory, to be paid in office and aid to relieve the tax burden on real estate.

Macomber, president of Massachusetts sportsman and owner of "Raceland" in Framingham, whose name has been listed with the Tuckerman group, returned to Boston today and refused comment on Governor Ely's commission nomination.

"I was very much surprised to find this mess," said Macomber. "I am not going to be involved in this. I am not going to be involved in this. I am not going to be involved in this."

Greenwood plan for the control of racing now in the hands of the state would give an exclusive franchise for horse and dog contests to a private corporation, with all profits above six percent being turned over to charitable institutions.

Trustees, serving without pay, would govern the tracks under the plan, but the trustees would not be allowed to hold stock in the outfit. To finance the franchise, State-authorized non-voting stock would be sold to the public with the number of shares per person limited.

New York Man, 101, Dies

Batavia, N. Y., Nov. 18 (INS)—A 101-year-old man, James B. Currier, died today. Always a Democrat, Currier voted in every election from 1854, when he was 18, to 1934, when he was 101.

NEW CLASHES STIR PARIS

Paris, Nov. 19 (AP)—Clashes over the week-end between rightists and leftists have revived the political bitterness attendant upon the ousting of former Premier Gaston Doumergue and his government.

There were disorders at Lille and Cambrai yesterday when assemblages of war veterans were disturbed by hostile political groups of the left. Deputy Louis Luchaire announced today that he would interpellate the government on the matter.

Fog Shrouds England

London, Nov. 9 (AP)—England experienced the season's worst fog today when a dense white and yellow fog shrouded the streets of London, through the Midlands and on to the east coast was robbed.

EDMUND WALSH WAS AN INSURANCE
AGENT WHEN THE ROMANCE BETWEEN THEM STARTED...

Walsh, good-looking, athletic and apparently destined for a promising career in the insurance business. Happiness seemed surely in prospect for the young bride. She became the mother of a baby daughter. Saw the child grow sturdy and rosy cheeked. Had a pleasant home with sunshine in its windows.

THEY WERE MARRIED IN 1930...

MISS EDITH PRESCOTT WOLCOTT and Mr. Charles Devens are going to start a new deal of domestic bliss on Friday, November 30, at four in the afternoon, when they march up the aisle of romance in Emmanuel Church in Boston.

Mr. S. Huntington Wolcott will give his daughter's hand in marriage. The Reverend Esmond Peabody, Dr. S. S. Drury and Dr. E. Phillips Osgood will read the ceremonial service.

Mrs. Samuel Huntington Wolcott, Jr., the former Mary Weld of Boston and New York, will serve as the bride's matron of honor and only attendant.

Ushers Named

MR. ARTHUR LITHGOW DEVENS, JR., of 206 Riverway, Boston, will be the best man for Mr. Devens. In the usher corps will be Charles Frances Adams, Jr., of Wellesley, Ephron Catlin, Jr., of New York, Waldron P. Belknap of Boston and New York, Alvah Crocker of Fitchburg, Reginald Fincke, Jr., of New York, Alexander C. Forbes of New York, Nathaniel Hamlen and Devenant Hamlen of Boston, William S. Patton of New York, James Parker of Boston, Charles H. Stockton, Samuel H. Wolcott, Jr., Robert S. Wolcott of Boston and Philip H. Watts of New York.

Mr. Devens' usher's dinner will take place at the Tennis and Racquet Club on November 27. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Church, Jr., gave a supper party for the bridal group and friends last evening.

Out-of-Town Guests

AMONG THE OUT-OF-TOWN guests who will be in town for this socially important wedding will be Mrs. James Markoe of New York, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sargent of Cedarhurst, L. I., aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Watts who will be house guests of the James Lawrence in Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Fincke, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Philip Weld and Mr. St. John Smith, all of New York.

Miss Wolcott attended the Ethel Walker School and was one of the belles of her presentation season. She is a popular member of the Junior League and Vincent Club.

Mr. Devens was graduated from Harvard with the class of '32 and was one of the outstanding athletes of that college. His clubs are the Tennis and Racquet, A. D., Hasty Pudding and Harvard.

Cards are out for the presentation tea dance of Miss Frances Shea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shea of Brookline, on Saturday, December 1, from 4 until 7 o'clock, at the Algonquin Club.

First of Fashion Show Luncheons

RESERVATIONS ARE POURING IN FOR the first Ritz-Carlton fashion show luncheon on Tuesday, November 20 (which is tomorrow), at twelve-thirty. . . . Mrs. Franklin is showing town and country clothes as well as the first display of southern fashions.

Among those already taking reservations in the beautiful and "best-dressed" Mrs. Robert Herick, Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Morgan, Mrs. Timothy Adamowski, Mrs. Henry Wader, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. W. B. Long, Mrs. Stewart Forbes, Mrs. Samuel H. Wolcott, Mrs. W. H. Pratt, Mrs. Robert Cook, Mrs. George L. Dow, Mrs. Robert Jamieson, Mrs. Archibald Blanchard, Mrs. Nathan Emmons . . .

Also Mesdames King, Longstreet, Codman, Simonds, Jenkins, Porter, Lee, Brewer, Curtin, Brophy and Hall. A group of society girls will maintain as well as a few professionals from New York. Miss Bettina Fehelman is in charge of models.

Large Gallery at Myopia Meet

AT THE MYOPIA HUNT CLUB race meeting at Bradley Palmer's large estate, Willow Dale, Hamilton, on the North Shore, on Saturday, there were only entries for one race, the Mortimer Cup and the ladies' race. The gallery was fairly large considering that this has always been more or less of a neighborhood and family affair.

Glimpsed in turf tweeds was Mrs. Josiah Child in grey and dark blue. . . . Mrs. Howland Seabury in green with tawny hat. . . . James J. Storror in light grey. . . . Mrs. Andrew Aile in twilight purple with yellow scarf. . . . Mrs. Charles S. Bird, Jr., with her young son, chatting with Mrs. George T. Rice in red. . . .

Miss Katherine Donnelly in brown swaggar with large sealskin collar was with Miss John O'Donnell in green tweeds. . . . Mrs. Albert Burrage wore brown jacket and darker skirt with tan hat. "Pete" Sortwell, whose husband won the race, wore a brilliant red velvet suit and long coat. . . . Mr. and Mrs. William Hodges were seen, Mrs. Hodges in a gorgeous mink or sable coat, the E. N. O. cannot get these fine distinctions and we are depending upon him for all this. . . .

The most outstanding fur coat which impressed him was the one worn by Mrs. Joseph B. Hoy, Jr., of Russian sable gulls, in blocks of brown and white. . . . she was with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank Hoyt and small daughter. The day was perfect and this should have been one of the outstanding events of the late autumn.

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

DR. AND MRS. J. B. HOWLAND and Mrs. Albert C. Burrage are guests at the Hotel in New York. Also visiting in New York are Mrs. Gordon Dexter and Mrs. and Mrs. W. E. Beechey who are at the Barclay.

Noel and Mary, Honeycomb Round, Dash Off to Escape the Wedding Party

CHAPTER 18
AT MARION'S warning, Mary finished adjusting her traveling hat, put a tiny bit of powder across her nose, caught up her purse, snail traveling bag and wrap, and walked toward the door.
"Noel said he'd be here in three minutes," she said, "is that time enough?"
"And then some," Marion answered. "Wow, but you're the ninth wonder of the world. The reason I rushed up was because I visualized you just getting out of your wedding gown. I thought you'd be at least a quarter of an hour yet. I might have known, though."
"Can the carrots! I don't eat 'em," Mary said perky. "What's doing downstairs?"
"Ronald's holding the fort, planning with them the best way of trapping you. Bill and Hank are concealed in the rear of Noel's old car."
"They ought to get a great kick out of the suitcase filled with magazines that Jim is even now carrying down the back stairs," Mary said with a grin. Marion stared at her, then gave a delighted little laugh.

CHANGING CLOTHES
"Jim's that priceless," she said. "Almost as priceless as the trusting way Carol and Bob are waiting for me to ride herd on you, and gave them warning as to just when you're going to sneak out to Noel's old car. They expect you to go down the back stairs and through the kitchen, and Bill and Hank in the car are watching that exit."
"I hope their eyes are not keen enough to see through our make-up," Mary said, then turned to her.

"The Ticer clothes are ready in the kitchen," she queried. "All ready, with Mrs. Ticer keeping delighted guard over them," I answered.
"Then everything's all set for you," Marion said. "I'll stay at the head of the back stairs, ostensibly on guard as Auntie Madge, the minute Mary and Noel are safely away, will you give me the signal from the antechamber?"
"The second I see the back of Jerry Ticer's silver starting across those steps I dash for the kitchen," I replied.
"From outside the door Noel's voice said triumphantly: 'Two minutes and a half; a half minute to spare.'"
"Come on, then," I said, but Mary made a little rush at Marion.

"Kiss me, darling," she said, and Mary was suspicion tears in her voice, "and thank you for all you've done for me, Goodbye!"
She turned and dashed for the door, catching Noel's hand and dragging him along with her as she went. I heard a little choking sob from Marion and kept my face averted from her till as I followed Mary and Noel.

KATY'S WARNING

It was the end of a beautiful English companionship. Their friendship, I knew, would continue as long as life communication between the precious and intimate in their companionship had been forever and for the rest that Marion was grieving over. I kept solemnly down the stairs, and Mary and Noel entered the kitchen, where Katy and the Ticer were standing.
"Quick, Katy!" Mary whispered.
"Help us on with the coat," Katy and Mrs. Ticer fairly leaped at her, one the shapely sweater, and the other with a big, long, loose coat, which Mrs. Ticer wears when she comes to work.
"Dot sweater steek you out, so you look fat like Mrs. Ticer," I don't mean fat," she added hurriedly, "but you know."
"You can't hurt my feelings, Katy," Mrs. Ticer laughed comfortably. "It'd be a fine lookin' object, as Miss Mary-I mean, Mrs. Vertner."

"She smiled, Mrs. Ticer guffawed, and Katy giggled, while Mary blushed warmly as she nestled herself in the shapely sweater and cloak that concealed the lines of her slender figure. Katy stopped giggling and gave a little gasp of dismay.
"You never in the wide world forgot," she said, "yet you didn't smart hat on top of dot reg."

Coats Up to the Ears in Fur

COATS are up to the ears in fur, for the more lavish the fur, the smarter and more distinguished the coat. Silver fox, Persian lamb, natural black and Schiaparelli's new black and white skins, Lord Byron and Medici shawls, and marvelous avoirdupois collars are the backbone of every woman's wardrobe. Black and brown, brown and white, and a brown velvet robelet and informal black and white hat with a black velvet toque and black kid sandals are for more important occasions.

ENGLISH COMPLEXION TONIC BRINGS NATURAL ROSE BLOOM TO CHEEKS

You'll Want "Chin-Chuckers" By the Dozen

ORCHETED in bright wool, a soft mesh "chin-chucker" can provide a different color accent every time you go out. Do one in bright royal blue to go with your burgundy wine trend . . . in copper rust to go with kelly green . . . in copper rust to go with Oxford grey . . . in Jonquil yellow to go with a black and white flecked trend. The one we show is an exact duplicate—except that it has the added advantage of being hand made—of sports triangles sets in our best specialty shop. A grand Christmas gift would be three or four such triangles in knock-out colors; nimble crocheters take notice! If you would like directions to make the "chin-chucker," write to Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bread-and-Butter Letter Rules

Dear Mrs. Beekman
Will you please tell me how to write a "bread-and-butter" letter? A friend of mine invited me to his uncle's farm for the week-end.
K.
When you write a bread-and-butter letter, keep in mind two things: first, thanks for the hospitality in general, for the kind invitation, for the thoughtful-

Festive Scalloped Apron

By MARIAN MARTIN

Check up on your apron supply. Is it low? With the holiday season rushing toward us we'll need plenty of gay aprons for festive entertaining. These two are designed for prettiness and grace, and they cut full enough as well, to perfect your house frocks. Both come in the same pattern! The upper apron uses a becomingly rounded neckline and a nicely scalloped skirt—the lower model makes use of yard upon yard of dainty lace edging to trim its pointed neck and pocket and skirt. If you are not in an special need of aprons for yourself, either of these made-of-cross-bar muslin or dotted-ecru would be a charming Christmas present.
The pattern may be ordered only in sizes, small, medium and large. The style number and size of each model requires 1 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Send fifteen cents in coin or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.
Send your order to Boston American Pattern Department, 232 West 16th Street, New York, N. Y.

Metal Mania

THE MANTIA of the moment is chrome (also preferred) for each bracelet, modern and ever so brassy, modern as the latest skyscraper, with simple wooten dainty wire gilded, and twisted into lovely designs. Another exciting metal conceit is the evening bag made entirely of steel, slim and light as a feather.

New Cooking Uses for Honey

By Martha Lee

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WASH

HERE is a National Honey Contest being conducted at present which brings that sweet nectar into the limelight. You've heard about honey in your newspapers and magazines, but about honey over your radio I see honey and honey in your grocery and bathroom. You will be tempted by numerous hints and recipes, and may even win a prize.

You are reminded about honey and honey. Honey in the home or extracted, naturally goes with hot breakfast. The man do full honor to it if there are enough honey in the rolls, Johnny cake, butter, or in the honey.

Liquid Only Faintly Tinted

By Juliet Shelby

HOW WOULD YOU like to bring the natural glow back into your cheeks? The roses that bloomed there in your youth, and all that! It sounds like a promise of Aladdin's Lamp, and yet the product I want to tell you about is almost magic.

So many women, who resort to rouge for color, get a hard look instead of a soft, natural appearance. And for that reason cosmetics introduced liquid and paste rouges. They blend into the skin more evenly and softly and do not detract from the skin's natural lovely texture.

But now, from England, comes an even better proposition for acquiring a natural cheek coloring. It is called a complexion tonic and is only slightly tinted. A clear, fragrant liquid that enters your natural skin tone to reappear.

It must be applied with cotton, as you would a face antiseptic. Pass it over your face and neck, omitting your nose, and let a rosy glow be yours. If you wish a deeper color on your cheeks and chin, give them a second application.

The marvel is that this tonic really works. These are not just vain words. The color it lends to your skin is soft and alluring and it will wear for the price of the stuff. I would say it at the hand, rounded cheeks and a complexion would give you the right.

But this liquid is a bit of a luxury. It can be brought back in a liquid of water and a dash of the tonic. I would say it at the hand, rounded cheeks and a complexion would give you the right.

UNION REJECTS SHOE PAY CUT

By Associated Press
Haverhill, Nov. 19.—The district council of the United Shoe and Leather Workers' union today unanimously rejected a demand of the A. E. Tatham shoe company for a 2 1/2 per cent wage reduction, a demand which threatened the removal of 400 workers from the plant in Manchester, N. H.

The demand was made by a four-hour strike by 433 employees.

A committee of five members of the district council met in conference with the city government tomorrow in the hope of a way and through the exodus of shoe workers from the city without "striking" them.

The company was asked to consider general wage increases, the city hall said today.

City Hall said today that it was facing the demand for a 2 1/2 per cent wage increase, an appeal to the National Administration of the American Federation of Labor.

BAN IS ASKED ON CRUISING CABS

Hinting at police luxury in the regulation of traffic, the traffic commission today asked that a ban be placed on cabs cruising the city streets.

Commissioner John J. Connelley said that rate of cruising cabs was the high of the city and that a ban would be a proper remedy.

Such a ban would be a rule against cabs cruising the streets of the city, the commission said.

The commission said that it was in the interest of the city to have a ban on cabs cruising the streets, and that it was in the interest of the city to have a ban on cabs cruising the streets.

Say New Deal "Cracks Down" on Women

MRS. RHEBAH GREATHOUSE, MRS. ANNA T. MILBURN, MRS. LISA BUENZLI

Delegates to the National Women's Party convention at New York declared that "The New Deal is just the Old Deal cracking down on women by more than 100 discriminatory edicts." "Remember the thousands of women thrown out of jobs when the night work law was passed," spokesmen for feminine interests warned. Here are Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, national secretary; Mrs. Anna T. Milburn of Seattle, and Mrs. Lisa Buenzli of Boston. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

U. S. Plans Cleanup of Cape Rum Running

A cleanup of rum-running through the town of Bourne and other points along the Cape, arrest of the so-called "master mind" of the traffic and apprehension of a notorious liquor smuggler are included in plans mapped out today by United States Attorney Francis J. W. Ford.

It was learned that the selectmen of Bourne and several police officers from the Cape section were in conference with Ford relative to the cleanup and provided with valuable information.

The U. S. coast guard service was appraised of the plans and are said to be preparing to co-operate with the customs officials.

A well-known bootlegger and his associate are known to have "fixed" matters in the Cape section so that interference would be blocked in the sailing of foreign liquor near the Cape.

The location of the "fix" will not be disclosed until U. S. Attorney Ford makes sure of the capture of the "rum king."

"We cannot show our hand yet," was all Ford would say, although admitting that he and his associates had been in conference with police officials and the selectmen from Bourne.

3 PRIESTS MADE MONSIGNORS

According to a request made by Cardinal O'Connell while he was in Rome, the Pope today elevated three priests of the Boston archdiocese to the rank of domestic prelate with the title of Monsignor.

Those so honored were the Rev. Daniel J. Kleicher, Ph. D., V. F., dean of the diocese of the archdiocese and parish priest of St. Peter's in Lowell; Cardinal O'Connell's own parish; the Rev. Francis J. Phelan, LL.D., chancellor of the archdiocese, and the Rev. John B. Labaree, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Salem, and representative of the French-Americans in the archdiocese.

FR. COUGHLIN HITS 'SLAVERY'

By Universal Service
Detroit, Mich. Nov. 19.—The Reverend Father Charles E. Coughlin, in his weekly radio talk, denounced capitalism in the United States, saying that he deemed political machines, bankers, industrialists, financiers, interests and the politicians to be the cause of the nation's ills.

"This is the brains and the brawn which control the industry of the nation, the transportation of the nation, the telephone and telegraph communications of the nation, the insurance companies of the nation as it holds us in the hollow of its hand and through its puppeteers endeavors to hold on to the old-fashioned system which has made slaves of civilized people."

Now points for a living wage to workers—second of the 16 planks of Father Coughlin's newly organized National Union for Social Justice—were briefly outlined by the radio priest.

Waller O'Hara Writes on Rival Interests Cool
Open Letter; Turf Turns Toward Charity Idea;
Into Free-for-All Rich Man vs. Poor Man

By AUSTEN LAKE

WALTER E. O'HARA, ONE OF THOSE wealthy horse track operators who is known as Mister, unlike the not-so-wealthy horse types who are known as Mike or Greasy or Three-finger, has come to the strange conclusion that racing is a business and not a sport.

Annoyed at the suggestion that Massachusetts should run its horse and dog merry-go-rounds for the benefit of the poor, the rich and the old, Mister O'Hara has written an open letter to the press, saying that "Horse and dog racing... has a place in the business curriculum just as much as a newspaper, an insurance business or a bank."

He says, further, "All four are operated for profit. And if anyone tells you that a racetrack should be run for charity, why should you not expect the author of such a magnificent proposition to operate in his own business for the good cause of charity?"

WELL, SIR, BECAUSE HORSE RACING is one of the grimmest pursuits known to man, subject to the manipulation of some avaricious types, and which cannot lose without special law permitting it as a gambling device. And because, by vote of the people, it is there to give or to take away.

In which respect, Mister O'Hara, it is unlike a newspaper, or an insurance business or a bank, which, in their several ways, are productive industries, aiming, in theory, to further public trade and prosperity.

The horse and dog tracks produce nothing except, perhaps, emotional tension, financial constipation and a gradual concentration of spare, or spending money, in the hands of the track operator. This is subject to mathematical proof, if you wish.

Money making is always a romantic theme. Such boyhood authors as Horatio Alger used to build a story around some ragged urchin who saved a stout banker's daughter from being dashed to death by a runaway horse and then, in the last chapter, stepped into a partnership in the firm and married the girl.

But one never reads, in good horse-race fiction, anything about the refined, honest types who triumphed in right doing, although you will certainly read quite a lot about the sordid, distasteful specimens who were caught in a cheat and had to lam out of town on the freight rods.

MISTER O'HARA FURTHER BELIEVES that "this coming winter is going to be a time when charity is to be most needed" and offers to cover any $50,000 donations which his Eastern Horse Club and Myopia Hunt Club rivals might wish to donate to charity with a like sum.

This is a safe challenge to make, because the rich, and socially exclusive types, are not liable to sprinkle away any $50,000's right now. But, if by some act of Providence, amounting to a miracle, they did, Mister O'Hara would bleed less for his donation because he has just paid off his $1,300,000 investment at Narragansett, with some nice profits to spare, in 60 days of racing.

I doubt whether the rich-exclusive horse men are any more anxious to operate their tracks for charity than Mister O'Hara, because the collapse of the big, gorgeous money boom in 1929 and some of its revelations tended to confirm the suspicion that the society, refined type of citizen are often spiritual cousins to the vulgar types who were engaged in the same line of work but with different tools, and are equally sensitive to the value of a dollar.

I AM STRONG FOR HORSE RACING in this state, as conducted of, for and by the people, with the profits going into the state kitty. Which would then amount to an even exchange of betting money in the community with the state soaking up the 12 1/2 per cent which is shrunk off every dollar that passes through the pari-mutuel ringer.

Conducted this way, horse racing will last longer, the people will suffer less mortification from their losses, and the state would benefit in its treasury what it sacrifices in public morals.

I HAVE NEVER ENJOYED THE delusion that the virtuous, socially correct sort of track operator in the horse and dog business does, of necessity, embody any more virtue than the shaggy swine behind the stall or kennel.

Because, high or low, under the skin, a man is pretty much the same when subject to need and temptations, and the distinguished pillars of the turf and sand sport may be honest in horse and dog questions only because, with ample private funds, they are immune to petty mooching in little things.

It makes no difference, then, whether Massachusetts tracks are operated by the select, blue-book group, or a professional business man like O'Hara, if the golden shower of coin is to pour into their cash barrels instead of his. In either case the huge profits will be just as far removed from public touch.

I can see in this fight for control of state racing between the various parties, only mutual dollar-desire in which the right hand in grabbing against the left with the people as the only real loser.

THIS IS A FAR CRY FROM the day when the horse-racing bill was being prepared for public enactment, and the horse and dog groups testified how they loved the animals for their glossy coats, the arch of their necks and the liquid, brown quality of their eyes. It looks now as though they made fraudulent professions, and what they loved most was the rubber elasticity of the animals' legs, their air-flow bodies and the shower of gold dust they would kick into the promoter's pockets, regardless of whether that shower included the milder's mite, the old folks' nest egg or the orphan's shilling.

HORSE SHOW OPENS HERE DEC. 6

With Boston's big three-day indoor horse show, under the auspices of 11th Cavalry, scheduled to open ten weeks from Thursday, December 6, at the Commonwealth Armory, the city will host a number of the best and a proportion of the best of the breed. Yale, Colgate and Cornell Wins Week-End College Features

"OUTSTANDING" JOBS

Yale's sensational 3-0 victory over Princeton; Pitt's sinking of the Navy, 11 to 7; Colgate's smartly executed win over Wake Forest, 15-7; Purdue's one-touchdown decision over Fordham, 14-0; Cornell's first major victory of the year over Dartmouth, 14-0; Wisconsin's victory over Michigan, 12-0; Vanderbilt's defeat of Princeton, 12 to 5, which won for the Little Three championship; Boston University's fine stand against Boston College, losing only 10-0; Harvard's rout of New Hampshire, 25-0; Columbia's second half rally to beat Penn, 13 to 12; Ohio State's decisive victory over Michigan, 49-0; Tufts' narrow squeak at Bowdoin, 7-6; Alabama's triumph over Georgia Tech, 40-0.

MOST SIGNIFICANT GAME

Yale's tremendous achievement over the hitherto undefeated Princeton Tiger. The score of 3-0 were rated as low as 1-0 before the game and the result was an "Iron Horse" race. Yale led the jump and held on in it grimly. It lasted a two-year winning streak, knocked the Tiger out of the undefeated line and left Princeton with a record of 1-1. The game was a classic, with Yale's defense being the star. The game was a classic, with Yale's defense being the star.

MOST THRILLING PLAY

Larry Kelley's one-handed catch of Jerry Roscoe's short pass over center and the resulting touchdown run which tied the game. In all, which turned an expected defeat into victory for Yale. The pass was all the more sensational in view of the fact that Princeton was expecting a coffin corner kick and was out of position to defend against such an air thrust.

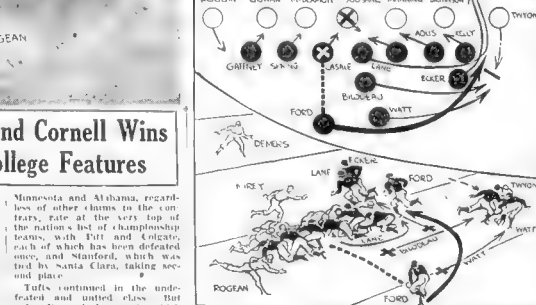

GENERAL COMMENT

Syracuse, Navy and Princeton are the favorites for just their first defeats at the hands of Colgate, Pitt and Yale respectively.

Crimson Builds Victory Tower With Good Solid Blocks for Material

Good blocks are the foundation and siding for any first class grid structure. Harvard's blocks were much improved, and so the Crimson won on Saturday in the stadium, over New Hampshire. Note here how George Yord has taken the ball on a direct pass from center and is off on an off-tackle smash for a net gain with excellent interference ahead. Harvard's good showing against the Wildcats brought new optimism to the Cambridge camp, with the Yale game in prospect. (Picture by Boston American Staff Photographer.)

With a sticky P-S-R-R-R, an over inflated Orange and Flare balloon collapsed—or more truthfully was collapsed by a determined and aggressive Yale team.

With this collapse the Princeton dream of the championship is a thing of the past, and the Yale team is left with a victory that is a relief from the disappointment of the previous season.

WILSON MAKES FRETHERN BEST BET ON BOWIE PROGRAM

JESTING PICKED TO ATONE FOR LAST DEFEAT

to who look elsewhere for a live bet on the card here tomorrow afternoon.

A really hard son of Run Rabin and Rayon Rouge, Fretther stamped himself one of the leading juveniles of the year when he led a field of eighteen that included the best in training under the imaginary wire in the Walden. His price looks like a good one of that sort.

FIRST RACE
GREAT MASTER, DOUBLE SWEET, DESERTED
GREAT MASTER—Don Meads from the winning combination in this event. DOUBLE SWEET finished a length or more in front of the top one a few days ago but, in the hands of John Hahn in the saddle that day, he DESERTED came up a good thing in the watering in several of the Narragansett races.

SECOND RACE
CHURCH CALL, STAR CHASE, GIFTED LADY

CHURCH CALL has only to run back to any one of her last four winners in order to lead this pack under the imaginary wire. STAR CHASE is able to get off the also eligible list, should offer the contention that, for breaking poorly she would have surely won her last start. GIFTED LADY dropped out of the running on opening day but may take the lion's share of the spoils providing the top two fail to start.

THIRD RACE
JESTING, CANT REMEMBER, GOLDEN FATE

Throw out JESTING LONE, Pimlico effort and he is one as a standard in the effort. CANT REMEMBER, a son of one of those good New England races would have won from the barrier, may hang on long enough to save the place from GOLDEN FATE. The latter is leading up a bit, but he was never better.

FOURTH RACE
PANTLE, JUDGE BLAKE, BOSTON BROOK

This number is a split of the original and calls for juvenile winners of two races. PANTLE, a highly regarded juvenile, will be right in the contention. JUDGE BLAKE, a recent winner, will be right in the contention. BOSTON BROOK, a recent winner, will be right in the contention.

FIFTH RACE
CAPTAIN ARGO, TRUMPET, RED WAGON

CAPTAIN ARGO, "Towel" horse and it is for that reason that he is strong along with the Kentucky stable colorbearer. The son of Happy Arrow is endowed with a right wall of speed. TRUMPET was installed favorite over better ones last time, but turned in a poor performance. RED WAGON has scant chance to display anything but a display of the break and last Sunday's effort may be lost to him.

SIXTH RACE
FIRETHORN, GILBY, JIM JOY

Anything upsets my dog and hands FIRETHORN a dismaying, it will likely be GILBY. The latter was easily beaten off by the top one in the Walden, but many observers are of the opinion that the Greenlee youngster would have won much easier had he been called. Prior to that effort, he was beaten by the top one in the Walden. JIM JOY, a recent graduate from the Maine track, looks as good as anything else for the short award.

SEVENTH RACE
GENERAL LEDUNE, DEEDIE, THE BRIGHT BIRD

GENERAL LEDUNE and DEEDIE, the two that get the highest figures in this affair, are on the also eligible list and may not get a chance to parade again in the event they do not start when they go to BRIGHT BIRD to enter the winner's circle. DEEDIE is right at top and has always been fond of this strip.

Twelve Teams 'Black Sheep' Play Grid Game Hard—But Fair

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 19.—The distance between Palmer Stadium in Princeton, N. J. and Laws Field in Ossining, N.Y., is not great, where human qualities are concerned. And the distance between a Yale-Princeton game and a Sing Sing Black Sheep-Piton A. C. game is not great, when you throw the veneer of culture into the equation.

On Saturday, I saw a Princeton lineman, in the dying centers of the game, slug a Yale man. It happened squarely in front of the Yale stands and the press box. On Sunday I saw the Black Sheep of Sing Sing play the Piton A. C. of East Boston.

I walked out of the famous prison with the thought that here are sportsmen; here are men with nothing to lose who play the game for the sake of the game; here are bank robbers and stickup men and forgers and burglars who are pure amateurs.

They play as hard as the best college players. They play the game with nothing to lose who play the game for the sake of the game; here are bank robbers and stickup men and forgers and burglars who are pure amateurs.

School Grid Scouts Do Fine Job

By Bill Connel
Denny Giddie of Everett and Warren McGuire of Malden showed what college scouts and grid scouts are for. They were in the Walden to see the game, and they were in the Walden to see the game, and they were in the Walden to see the game.

Both teams played smart, courageous football under great pressure, and made the game a thriller rather than the drab affair one might expect with no scoring.

Even when his brilliant punts were being, Teddy Williams didn't stop his brilliant punting because Beverly on Saturday. The game, incidentally, marked a wonderful comeback by Beverly. Beverly might have been expected to collapse after the Walden's first drive, but he didn't. But in five days it regained its right to be called for Coach Carroll.

Heidi McDugget who's a fine running back helped transform the game from a pushover to a fighting, winning game, started at Malden, as a result of its impressive conquest of Wakefield and Watertown, will step into the Arlington game on Thanksgiving with a real chance of winning.

Upsets were missing from the game, as the school eleven, which won only by small scores, were beaten and untied, and made Mark Devlin's team in overwhelming favorite to take the state title. Boston English, which has been beaten once by Gorton, but won all the other games, may have something to say when the title claiming starts.

No attempt to harm the girl occurred and today, Mrs. Davey said, Evangeline is personally unperturbed.

Evangeline, a member of the 1933 graduating class of Wellesley College, is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davey. She has a brother, Martin, Jr., aged 16.

European War-Makers Control League of Nations U. S. Must Keep Out!

A STRANGE and unwelcome result of the Democratic sweep in the recent election is the promptness with which the old stand-bys of the League of Nations jumped to the conclusion that there was another chance for their fallen and discredited Covenant.

It seems to be assumed by League fanatics like Newton D. Baker and Nicholas Murray Butler that, with two-thirds of the next Senate composed of Democrats, the off-rejected League might now squeak through.

They proceed on the utterly false premise that the Democratic Party is in favor of joining the League of Nations, and that, with control of the two-thirds required for the ratification of a treaty, the Senate would ratify the League Covenant.

They also assume that the next Senate will include a goodly number of new members, unfamiliar with the compelling reasons for our abstention from the League, and that these callow, first-year Senators will fall for the time-worn arguments of the pro-Leagueurs which have been so completely riddled and sunk in years gone by.

NEWTON D. BAKER is more glib in his approach to the question than Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, whose presidency of the dead-hand Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has not only institutionalized but ossified his League of Nations obsession.

Baker, however, admits that the Covenant should be "modified," but by its friends, not its enemies.

He thinks the United States should not join the League "unreservedly" at first, but that we should "little by little" become accustomed to participate in its deliberations. In other words, that the League, as the poet said of vice, should be first "endured, then pitied, then embraced."

WHAT PERNICIOUS STUFF THIS IS!
With the whole world—and particularly Europe—convinced that war is inevitable, with Mussolini serving notice of Italy's readiness for the struggle for world power; with Lloyd George, Britain's war-time Premier, asserting that war is "lurking in the path along which humanity has got to tread," and calling on the world to note "the ferocious grin of war just above the horizon"—it is a sinister time indeed to renew the hideous effort to involve us in the tangled skein of European war intrigue.

HAD it not been for the warnings of far-visioned and patriotic Americans this country might have joined the League at its inception, before its inherent fallacies and dangers had worked to the surface and become recognized as ineradicable and incurable.

We might then have excused our folly on the ground that we had no experience to guide us.

BUT NOW WE HAVE SEEN THE LEAGUE IN OPERATION!

We have seen its appropriation by the scheming war-makers of Europe, and its use not as an implement of peace but as an instrument for the sharpening of international hostility and the fomenting of war.

WE HAVE SEEN THE RECORD OF THE LEAGUE!
It is a record of futility, unbroken failure and uninterrupted decline in world respect and confidence.

It is a frayed and tattered thing, flapping in the wind like a forgotten and dishonored flag.

Europe today is the crater of a volcano. The United States, thank God, stands far off. Even if the molten lava of war should overflow we still have a chance to observe its direction and avoid its course.

These pestilent League votaries, like the old woman in the story who "thanked heaven she was not open to conviction," learn nothing from the country's steady rejection of their pleas. They are determined to drag us up to the very rim of this crater, where every belching blast of noxious gas would strike us and escape would be cut off.

Let us fervently pray they do not succeed!

IT MAY be that this fight has got to be fought out once more. If so, patriotic Americans who love their country, and mean to keep it out of alien wars which do not concern it, will again gird themselves for the battle.

AND WOE UNTO THE POLITICAL PARTY whose leadership is so blind or whose elected representatives are so stupid as to permit it to become identified in the popular mind with the renewal of this odious conspiracy against the interests and the safety of the United States!

Bay State Sales Tax

It's Predicted by Mr. Long

Henry T. Long, the Bay State's commissioner of taxation, is quoted as telling the New England State Tax Officials' Association at New Haven:

"A sales tax for Massachusetts is inevitable."

None of the reports of the session which we have seen had anything to say about economy in government.

The tax officials seemingly concern themselves only with maintaining the present volume of spending.

But it is plain to the overburdened taxpayer that we must cut expenses.

It is also plain to him, if he is still able to keep the old family car going, that we have a sales tax already.

We have, in fact, several, but the one he notices mostly is that on gasoline.

This has "stood up" the best of all forms of taxation, and has been the most nearly painless.

It is a forceful argument for the general manufacturers sales tax, which would enable us to scrap income taxes and other special burdens which have degenerated into the "racket" class.

Liquor Stores Plan

Favored Outside Bay State

It is of general interest to observe the different measures adopted by the advocates of true temperance for liquor sales, following scrapping of the "Noble Experiment."

In Massachusetts the plan of making sales through State-owned liquor stores received scant consideration.

The big majority here felt that the revenue from licenses was most important, in view of currently heavy tax burdens.

New Hampshire adopted the state liquor store plan, which it put into operation only a few weeks ago.

Maine follows the New Hampshire plan. But the Pine Tree State's new liquor commission announces it may be weeks before any commission.

The commission says it wants to study personally the New Hampshire store system.

This would not appear to demand much time. Maine should speed up on this rapid operation, already far too long delayed since the will of her people has been made plain.

State's 'Regulation'

Make It Good or Scrap It

When one stops to consider that the State of Massachusetts has a so-called Blue Sky law supposed to protect investors it is not very complimentary to have the Federal Securities and Exchange investigators so active in Boston.

After all we supposed the Bay State was some years ahead of the rest of the country in protecting investors. Certainly we have the red tape. Yet the "flying squid," representing Mr. Kennedy and his commission, manages to keep busy.

Something is the matter. And if it is the mechanism of state control, let's find out. Either fix up the Blue Sky law or do away with the whole thing. It might save taxpayers money and, from results to date, the Federal agency is at least vigilant in protecting the public interests.

Clean Up Beaches

On North Shore and Elsewhere

Residents of Beverly and Marblehead are protesting the presence of sewage which drifts on their beaches in such quantities as to be obnoxious.

Physicians have declared conditions to be unsanitary. The city appears to be up to the Legislature which convenes in January.

State Commissioner of Public Health Henry W. Chadwick has promised to have a report ready for that body.

The protesters are right in demanding North Shore beaches should be kept clean. And the Beacon Hill officials should see to it that not only North Shore beaches, but also all others along the Bay State waterfront are kept sanitary.

The Mail Goes Wrong

Gives $7,000 Postcard Shower

Postmaster S. Carroll Coburn of Milford, N. H., had a $7,000 postcard shower from Uncle Sam recently. Some 700,000 postcards addressed to Trenton, N. J., landed on Mr. Coburn's counter.

The blunder merely serves to point out the fact that the postal service is surprisingly efficient.

An soldier does not go to sleep despite the large volume handled, that it's often news when it does.

French Bluebeard On the Guillotine

By Edwin C. Hill

A Frenchman with a curious taste in antiques has just purchased from the Quai de la Seine the blood-stained guillotine which descended the French Revolution in the days of the Terror, when Robespierre and St. Just were the masters of France.

Not many Americans, in all likelihood, have ever seen the "Widow" in her terrible work. It is a spectacle, which, once seen, remains stamped in memory.

And the new news agent of the guillotine of the French Revolution recalls an execution which took place in Paris on the gray dawn of a February day back in 1922.

OUTSIDE THE PRISON
This writer was one of a silent crowd outside of the prison in the Rue George Clemenceau, looking on in dread fascination, while Landru, the French Bluebeard, walked to his doom under the shining knife. He had been a cold and fiendish murderer all through his later years.

His gray hair had been middle-aged and elderly women with money, usually, unattractive. Faded women, in whose pathetic hearts still lingered a yearning for romance, home and a good husband.

But one by one, he had lured 11 of these simple, trusting creatures and slaughtered them with a callous cruelty that drew only in the hearts of devils escaped from the pit to acquire masking.

In the end he was tracked down by the police who, with the glowing of a friend, the tale of the eleven murders.

HIS HOUR CAME
And then his hour came on that day, outside the old prison in the Rue Clemenceau, hardly a pistol in the hands of the police who, with the glowing of a friend, the tale of the eleven murders.

And then his hour came on that day, outside the old prison in the Rue Clemenceau, hardly a pistol in the hands of the police who, with the glowing of a friend, the tale of the eleven murders.

And then his hour came on that day, outside the old prison in the Rue Clemenceau, hardly a pistol in the hands of the police who, with the glowing of a friend, the tale of the eleven murders.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Why Don't Men Take Women Seriously? If women will take themselves seriously, that's something we're often reluctant to do. Theoretically we have independence and equality—but we can't make our minds what to do about it. We don't know whether we want to be two-footed humans or clinging vines. The truth is, we hope to have our cake and eat it, too.

TAKE YOUR CASE
Take your own case. Did you ever hear a man worker discussing his girlish appearance and native personality? No, you didn't.

Nor did you ever hear SERIOUS WORKERS discussing it, either. A girlish appearance and native personality were valuable assets when homes were hard, but now they are a hindrance.

As for the Blue Bird Men, they are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be. They are not so much as they used to be.

Meet the Commentator: Hendrik Van Loon

Those who try to crash the Gates of Heaven are a strange and curious folk.

I have visited many lands and I have known all sorts and manners of people. But those who hope to crash the Gates of Heaven are in a class by themselves.

According to Caesar, all Gaul was divided into three parts: the brass, the iron, and the steel. The Gauls of the present day are divided into three parts: the brass, the iron, and the steel.

But to make the attempt (merely to make the attempt) to pass unnoted by that guarding the divine portals for the last seventy generations is a task of monumental proportions. I can only see one possible purpose for which language is ever invented, and that is a purpose of eminent practicality.

Most of us spend our lives after-wards and they still remain after-wards, to do with "Give me the salt, please," or "Yes, I will take a little more of the salt, please."

I am to be the salt, please. I am to be the salt, please. I am to be the salt, please.
